

Steps Taken To Organize Business Fraternity Colony

Fifteen Business Administration upper classmen met February 9 for the purpose of forming a colony that will lead to the organization of a professional business fraternity on The University of Tennessee Martin Branch campus.

The all-male committee appointed Fred Collins to lead the group in soliciting the attendance of all male junior and senior students and faculty members in the field of Business Administration. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, February 17 at 6:30 p.m. in Room 325 of the Administration Building.

Pledging one's interest, time, and effort will be necessary in fulfilling the requirements that must be met before such a project can be successfully completed. Though the work will be hard, the rewards will be high for the organizers and participants in an organization of this type, say the sponsors of the organization.

Those attending the first meeting were Carl Brindle, Ken Trotter, Albert Markham, Joe Christopher, Bob Stader, Freddie Smith, Roger Stout, Jere Hadley, Fred Collins, Dick Roseman, Charles Meigs, Larry York, Charles Bell, Allen Hanks and Raymond Collier.

This committee has no connection with the presently existing Business Club, although one may hold membership in both.

Two Publications Being Distributed

Two publications of The University of Tennessee Martin Branch are now being distributed, Wayne Tansil, public relations director, said yesterday.

The new 1965-1966 catalog has been sent to faculty members and copies are being mailed to high school seniors in West Tennessee. The format of the new edition of the catalog is the same as last year. The same cover design has been used with blue substituted for orange. The new catalog has 168 pages compared to 158 pages last year.

A new revision of the brochure, "How Much Does It Cost to Go to College?" is just off the press and is available to high school visitors and department heads. The brochure has a revised schedule of prices for room rents and for the new resident hall now being built. It also has a new section on "How to Get Admitted to UTMB."

Second Round ACT Scheduled Feb. 20

The second regularly scheduled American College Test will be administered February 20 from 8 a.m. to 12, Henry C. Allison, registrar of U-T Martin Branch, announced yesterday.

The test will be given in Room 112 of the Administration Building and Room 204 of the Engineering-Physical Sciences Building.

Approximately 260 are scheduled to take the test, Mr. Allison said, which compares to 174 who took the test at the corresponding date last year.

Last year UTMB received scores for 726 students taking ACT tests at all test centers for the February date. We anticipate receiving 1,000 scores for the February testing, he said.

If this prediction is true, we will have received 2,400 sets of scores for November and February tests alone. This corresponds with 1,656 sets of scores for the corresponding periods last year, he said. The number of ACT scores sent to UTMB each year is one of the indicators of enrollment the following year.

Applications Open For Work Study Jobs For Students

Applications are now being accepted for the College Work Study program, Gene Stanford, business manager of The University of Tennessee Martin Branch, said yesterday.

There are 48 jobs available on campus for students and six jobs with welfare agencies off campus, he said. Students will start working February 16.

The federal government has set up this program to help needy students get in college and stay. This is a supplement to the federal loan, Mr. Stanford added.

The students who can qualify come from families with low incomes--$3,000 or less, an increase of this amount depends on the number of children in the family, he said. We feel that there is a close correlation between the income tax a family pays and the amount they can afford for a student's education.

We have asked department heads to check and uncover any qualified students, Mr. Stanford concluded.

Tickets On Sale For Vanguard Play

Tickets for the production, "Little Mary Sunshine," will be on sale at Miss Harriet Fulton's office in the Music Building and other key places on the campus February 12, according to William Snyder, director of Vanguard's play and instructor in speech.

To avoid unnecessary confusion and delay, the tickets will be reserved and individually numbered. Admission will be 75¢ for students and $1 for adults. Although phone reservations will be accepted, it is recommended that everyone purchase his tickets in advance, Mr. Snyder said.

There will be something for everyone in this musical-dancing, singing, forest rangers, Indians on the warpath, and eight pretty chorus girls, Mr. Snyder promised.

Students May Take Peace Corps Placement Test Here On Feb. 20

A Peace Corps Placement test will be administered on February 20 at 8 a.m. on The University of Tennessee Martin Branch campus, Henry C. Allison, registrar, said yesterday.

All students desiring to take the test should report in Room 112 of the Administration Building February 20, he stated.

It is necessary to fill out a questionnaire prior to taking the Peace Corps Test. Questionnaires are available in the Registrar's Office.

The test is directed primarily toward juniors, seniors and graduate students on four-year campuses, he said, but all students are eligible to take it.

The Peace Corps Placement Test actually consists of four tests, Mr. Allison said. Two tests are required for all applicants and two language tests are optional. All applicants

Nine of the eleven semi-finalists who will compete Monday night for the Miss UTMB title are (l to r), seated, Lynn Page, Elaine McKee; standing, Beth Sturdivant, Molly

Jenkins, Betty Weems, Carol Glisson, Jill Walker, LeMon LeCornu, and Annette Grissom.

'Volunteer' Coming Off Press In May

The 1965 edition of the UTMB Volunteer will be complete and ready for distribution about the last week in May.

The design and color of the yearbook will be different from last year's book, but the inside will follow the same general pattern.

Betty Weems, a senior in Home Economics, is editor of the current "Volunteer," and Mrs. Mildred Y. Payne, instructor in English, is the annual advisor. Mrs. Payne was recently named to "Who's Who Among Colleges Publications Advisors" by the National Scholastic Press.

According to Mrs. Payne, the annual staff has met two of their four deadlines and will meet the third one March 1.

A new dark room has been added to the staff's work area in the Old Science Building.

Last year was UTMB's fifth consecutive year to receive the "All American" rating. The Associated Collegiate Press confers this rating on a point system, grading the book technically. Yearbooks are judged with others produced by schools of the same enrollment bracket. Last year UTMB's annual was judged against 58 other books. Only three books in the group received the "All American" rating.

Mrs. Payne was exuberant in her praise for the annual staff, the editor, and Mr. Waller, saying that this group constitutes the "unsung servants of the school."

Miss UTMB Will Be Chosen From Eleven Contestants

The annual University of Tennessee Martin Branch Beauty Review will be held in the new Gymnasium at 8 p.m., February 15.

The master of ceremonies for this event will be Dave Overton of WSM Radio and Television, Nashville. Overton also emcees the Miss Tennessee Pageant in Jackson.

There will be 11 young women competing for the title of Miss UTMB in swimsuits, formal, and talent divisions. The competition will be narrowed down to five and these girls will be asked questions for judgment of their poise, charm, intelligence and personality. From these five will be selected Miss UTMB and four runners-up.

During intermission there will be entertainment from UTMB's campus. Charlotte Robbins will do a song and dance routine; Dr. William Nelson, of the Biological Science Department, will give a medley of songs with his guitar; Kathy Brown will sing; and there will be a trombone ensemble.

The 11 girls competing for the title of Miss UTMB are: LeMon LeCornu, a freshman from Greenfield in secondary education, will do a dramatic reading of "The Ballad of the Harp-Weaver" by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Beth Sturdivant, a freshman from Trenton in secondary education, will read "Patterns," a poem by Amy Lowell.

Linda Thorpe, a sophomore in home economics from South Fulton, will do a dress design skit.

Shirley Raines, a sophomore in home economics from Bells, will sing. Lynn Page, a junior in elementary education from Trimble, will sing "I Enjoy being a Girl."

Molly Jenkins, a sophomore from Waynesboro in liberal arts, will do a musical reading. Betty Weems, a senior in home economics from Memphis, will give a dramatic reading.

Carol Glisson, a junior in secondary education from Martin, will give a dance routine. Jill Walker, a senior in home economics from Bells, will sing.

One of the above 11 girls will reign as Miss UTMB in the Miss Tennessee Pageant, the Strawberry Festival, and in the World's Biggest Fish Fry.

Seniors To Learn Of Graduate Work

Dr. Jack E. Reese, assistant dean of graduate school, and representatives from various departments at U-T Knoxville will be on campus Friday, February 12, from 9:30 to 12:00.

Their purpose on campus will be to talk to seniors about doing graduate work and to encourage them to do so, Dr. Norman Campbell, dean of instruction, has announced.

The meeting will be held in Room 202 of the EPS Building. Dr. Campbell has asked that faculty members notify the seniors in their classes of this opportunity.

What Makes News?

When you look at The Violette, what do you see? Do you consider that there are certain ground rules that any self-respecting newspaper must follow?

To the members of the student staff who prepare the paper, it means a job to be done in the best possible way.

Who's to judge the best possible way? To get an impartial viewpoint The Violette pays a membership fee to the Associated Collegiate Press, located at The University of Minnesota, to judge its effectiveness as a campus newspaper. Other educated opinions are solicited.

At all times staff members must remember that the purposes of The Violette, as well as every newspaper, are to inform the students, to educate the students, and to entertain them.

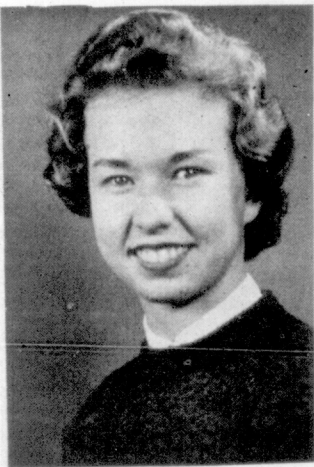

To do these three things, the news stories must be written in an objective way, leaving out personal opinion and including these opinions only in editorial material or by-lined feature articles. This means reporting the facts, objectively.

While following these purposes objectively, news material for The Violette must be evaluated under four yardsticks - timeliness, nearness to the reader's interest, the significance of the persons involved and the human interest of the news.

With these purposes and evaluative measuring sticks, The Violette staffers approach the job each week.

Certainly, the members of the staff do not expect every person to read every item every week. This would be an unheard of result. But it is the hope of every newspaper that there is something in each edition for everyone.

Senior Coed Selected For Job Mission Counselor To New York

MARGARET SIMRELL

Margaret Simrell, a senior at The University of Tennessee Martin Branch, has been selected as a Tennessee Baptist Student Union missionary for this summer.

She will serve for two weeks, from July 7 to July 21, as one of three counselors selected from college students in the state. They will counsel high school students from various churches on a bus tour of the missions in the New York metropolitan area. The students will observe and participate in mission activities in the area. They will help plan devotional programs and share ideas with the missions.

Margaret was selected by a state committee of BSU leaders. Applicants were interviewed at Jackson, January 9, and again at Martin, January 13. Final selections were made in Nashville the last of January. The mission tour and other BSU summer missionary projects are financed by contributions from the various BSU's in the state.

At UTMB, she is in liberal arts, majoring in chemistry. Next quarter she will be student teaching to complete requirements for state teacher certification. At present she is teaching a freshman chemistry laboratory for the physical science section.

Margaret graduated from Cloverdale High School, Obion. At UTMB, she was All-Sing publicity chairman for 2 years and is presently president of the Baptist Student Union on campus.

She is the daughter of Mrs. R.C. Simrell of Route 2, Obion.

Dinner For Donors Attended By 247

About 247 attended a dinner honoring University of Tennessee Martin Branch scholarship donors Monday night at the Fieldhouse.

This was the first time such an occasion had been held to give recognition to scholarship donors. In addition to the donors, those attending were student scholarship recipients, UTMB administrative officials and faculty members. Scholarship donors include business firms, organizations, and the Gooch Foundation.

Professor Lloyd A. King, chairman of the scholarship committee, was toastmaster for the occasion. Speakers were Vice President Paul Meek, Bill Smythe, director of admissions at U-T Knoxville, Charles Brakehill, executive director of Gifts and Grants for the University of Tennessee, and Jany Jacobs, UTMB student, who spoke on behalf of the recipients.

Mr. Smythe explained the difference between the general scholarships and merit scholarships provided by the University of Tennessee General Alumni Association.

Officials Explain University Need For Money Gifts

Charles Brakehill, executive director of gifts and grants at The University of Tennessee Knoxville, explained to U-T Martin Branch faculty members and officials a new approach for receiving gifts and grants Monday afternoon.

William G. Smyth, director of admissions at U-T Knoxville, was also present at the meeting.

Mr. Brakehill was introduced at the meeting by Dr. Paul Meek, vice president of the university in charge of Martin Branch.

Mr. Brakehill told the group that U-T should be more interested in deferred giving of money than any other type.

He explained that the gifts received through deferred giving will be for projects and plans which the state doesn't support.

Our university is helped through the alumni, Mr. Brakehill said. The first question large corporations ask us is "How do your alumni help U-T?"

He said that a gift from a person should be coordinated with his family financial planning. This approach provides that through wise planning, a person may increase his disposable income presently and increase the financial value of the estate. Tax laws encourage gifts to education, he stated.

The booklet, "Economy of Giving," is sent quarterly to people whom the university feels might be interested in giving.

Mr. Brakehill completed a course in long-range program with the Kennedy Sinclair Service in Montclair, New Jersey.

"This must be set in motion, and I think it will bear fruit. Even if it takes 20 years to unfold, it will be continuous," Dr. Meek added.

Fair Sex Say Valentine's Is Time To Show Affection

BY PAT CHAMBERLAIN

Valentine's Day is here again, and fellows have the opportunity to show that "special" someone how much they care.

There are a number of ways to express warm affection. One way is to send a girl a lovely card with those special verses meant "just for you." Another way is "sweets for the sweet." There is such an array of candy to select from to send that special sweetheart. Of course, flowers are always warmly received as a symbol of affection.

Everyone is acquainted with these American Valentine Day's customs, but have you ever thought about the history of this date? Come with me to Rome, and I will tell you. Saint Valentine is the name given to three different martyrs whose feast day falls on February 14.

Miss Kitty Hart Is Appointed To Position On English Staff

MISS KITTY HART

Miss Kitty Hart, a native of Union City, has recently been appointed to the English staff at The University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

Miss Hart received her bachelor of arts degree with a major in English from Memphis State University in 1963. During the past summer and the first semester of this school year, she did graduate work in speech and drama at The University of Colorado where she was active in the summer theater. This is her first teaching assignment in a university or college.

During the school year of 1963-64, Miss Hart taught high school English at Cape Girardeau and was also the director of drama. She plans to complete her master's degree with a major in drama and a minor in English or a double major.

The first two years of her college career were spent at Mississippi Southern where she was a member of the twirling group "Dixie Darlings." In the summer of 1963 after graduating from Memphis State University, she toured Europe and visited Shakespeare's home in England.

Miss Hart has a reputation for putting her "heart" into her work, according to one UTMB administrative official.

One professor at The University of Colorado summed it up in the following statement: "Kitty Hart is a charming girl, always around, always helpful, always cheerful. She has more enthusiasm than any two people I know. She will knock herself out to do a good job teaching English to freshmen or selling iceboxes to Eskimos."

Miss Hart is replacing Mrs. Jo Ann McWherter who has taken a position in Nashville.

UTMB Vols Will Meet Bulldogs In Jackson In Season's Finale

UTMB will travel to Union University at Jackson Saturday night in the two teams' final conference games of the season at 8 p.m.

If the Vols, presently in third place, whip the Bulldogs, they can rise to a first place tie with Belmont College, who defeated the Vols Monday night. The ultimate result in defeating the Jacksonians will depend on Union's performance against David Lipscomb College at Nashville.

Should Union, who is now in first place with a 4-2 record, fall to David Lipscomb Thursday night and should the Vols defeat them Saturday night, Belmont College and UTMB will be in a tie for first place, with a 5-3 conference record, while Union will fall to second.

Should UTMB lose to Union, the Vols will remain in third place, Belmont will keep second place, and of course the Bulldogs will retain possession of top spot providing they defeat David Lipscomb.

Vols Get Back At Delta 85-71

UTMB scored 18 points in the final minutes Saturday night to roll up an 85-71 victory over Delta State College and to avenge an earlier 73-65 loss to the Mississippians on the road.

With the Vols trailing 67-66 with just over four minutes remaining, center Joe Pollock put the home boys on top to stay by sinking two free throws. Forward Moore Landers, who led both teams with 24 points, returned again seconds later with two more.

With the Statesmen in a full court press at this point, UTMB spurted ahead quickly with the help of the 10 more points by Landers. Nine of the Vols' total came in the last minute and a half.

It is hoped that Vol captain and leading scorer Ronnie Armstrong, who has missed the last two games, will be able to be back in action. The junior is holding a 15.1 game average as well as an infected foot. In the Bulldog-UTMB meeting at Martin, Armstrong dropped in 17 points although the Vols fell 67-62. Union's stalwart, Jeff Richie, who scored 24 points at Martin, will be the boy to stop.

Belmont Triumphs In Critical Game

In their last home appearance, UTMB lost to Belmont College 86-72 in one of the determining games of the VSAC, with the Vols having one more conference game remaining.

The Rebels jumped out to an early lead and never were headed. Their zone defense and the Vols' unusually low field goal accuracy led the visitors to their second win of the season over the home boys. The victory put the Rebels in second-place in the conference, a spot that UTMB had held prior to the game.

UTMB, now with a 4-3 conference standing, takes on the league leader, Union University Saturday night at Jackson. Should the Vols win that game, they will be in a first-place tie with the Rebels, and Union, who would all have 5-3 records provided Union top David Lipscomb Thursday.

Guard Donald Ray High came from the sidelines to score 17 points during UTMB's futile attempt to come from behind. Forward Moore Landers followed closely with 16. The other forward, Don Glover, took 12, while guard Jerry Combest had 10. In other scoring, Dave Small had 4, Jerry Lacy and Joe Pollock ended with 2.

As It Looks From Here

BY DAVID DUNCAN

Following Bethel College's upset of high-flying Union University Tuesday, the race for top spot in the conference has taken on a new light. At the moment, Union is still in first place but with a conference record which has dropped to 4-2. Belmont College holds second with a 5-3 total and has ended their conference play for the season. UTMB lists a 4-3 mark but still has Union to meet Saturday.

The pressure is on the leading Bulldogs, ironically, for they must meet fourth place David Lipscomb College at Nashville tonight and then return to Jackson to face UTMB Saturday. Depending on the outcome of these two games, UTMB can remain in third place, move to second, or even to a first place tie. Belmont will hold second and possibly move to first, while Union could hold first or drop to second place.

Should the Bulldogs lose these last two games, UTMB and Belmont will end up in a tie for first place with 5-3 records, and Union will fall to second place with a 4-4. Should Union fall to UTMB but prove victorious over Lipscomb, the Vols, Belmont, and Union will all be in a first place tie with 5-3 records. If Union defeats UTMB but falls to Lipscomb, the top spot will be shared by the Bulldogs and Belmont, while UTMB will fall to second. However, if Union wins both of these last two VSAC games, they will remain in first, Belmont behind them, and UTMB in third.

One can see the importance of these last two games. UTMB has a good chance at either second or first place, but for that top spot the Vols must prove victorious Saturday night whether Union defeats Lipscomb tonight or not.

Turning away from conference action, let's look at our squad individually and note the four graduating seniors. Guard Johnny Williams, a starter from Jackson, who is the fastest man on the squad. Jerry Combest, another guard from Henderson, Kentucky, who holds the highest field goal percentage as well as free throw marks to date, center Joe Pollock of Dexter, Missouri, who is one of the toughest defensive starters, and Wally Hoffman, a center who ended his career last week in a car accident.

These four boys deserve all and more credit than we can possibly give them. Tell them so, and get behind the other ten as UTMB enters the crucial VSAC tournaments.

UTMB Frosh Get Revenge On SEMO

The freshmen team gained revenge for their only loss of the season by topping Southeast Missouri State's Junior Varsity 86-74 Monday night.

With Jimmy Phillips leading the attack with 27 points, the new Vols pulled slowly away during the first half and at the break held a 45-31 margin. A late SEMO rally drew the visitors within three points at one time, but the Vols swept back out in front before the buzzer.

With the win Coach Jim Swope's team raised their record to 8-1 and still have one more game remaining. In other scoring, James Patterson took 20, Pat Taylor sank 18 and Thomas Martin ended with 13. Robert Barger was held to six and Mike Kirkham took two.
